generally.

It is obvious that property, after having been frequently advertised or fruitlessly offered for sale by auction, becomes depreciated in general estimation; while, on the other hand, it is clear that private purchase is often of advantage to buyers in enabling them to secure more equitable terms than may be obtainable in the heat and haste of an auction room.

The private disposal of property, therefore, offers advantage alike to buyers and sollers as a medium course, and, upon the whole, the most reliable means of selling and purcharing at the real value.

SYDNRY BRADS.

The Sydney Morning Merald.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1871.

THROUGH every channel of information we learn that a great movement in the industrial world has succeeded to the paralysis of war. The diminution of employment in making weapons of destruction might have been expected, but in the control of the c pected; but, in fact, such are the improvements of the art that reconstruction and rements of the art that reconstruction and renewal have become necessary in all nations, and instead of beating their awords into ploughshares and their spears into pruninghooks, they are rearming with better weapons; that is, more scientific and effective ones, and more capable of destroying. The chassepots of France taken as spoil are being converted into German rifles, having all the improvements of both countries,—for the needle-gun has been found inferior to the French weapon in some respects. On the other hand France in some respects. On the other hand France is reconstituting her army. 300,000 men have already passed the borders, and what we full anticipated has been formally announced, that the navy is considerably diminished, while the outlay for military force is to be rather increased than abated. The Times, in noticing this fact, expresses something like horror at the pertinacity of the French mind, and at the latent purpose attributed to M. THERS, of renewing the conflict at the first opportunity; but it will be remembered that every but it will be remembered that every independent organ of public opinion, and every statesman, not being either German or French, declared that this must be the result of the treaty. France may be torn by revolution, and weighed down by indemnities, but sooner or later the elasticity of her national character will enable her to recover her military strength, and deliver her from the massaling to which she has been realized.

The moneyed classes of France have entreated the Government to pay the indemnity at once, and thus get rid of the invader, and the Times, remarking on the proposition, infers that BISMARK will regret not having insisted upon a higher amount—an extremely probable opinion. The unexpected character of this proposal may be imagined from an article which appeared on the day when the subscription was opened, which was full of gloomy anticipations and suggestions, implying that the loan would be a failure. This might be in the interest of the wayer waylet of London. the interest of the money market of London, and not political animosity. When, however, the offers were so great that only forty-five per cent. was required, the Times professed to be astonished, and to wonder at the moderation of M. BISMARK, who had left a people or ich. to escape as lightly vassulage to which she has been reduced.

tion of M. Bismann, who had left a poople; so rich, to escape so lightly.

"Independently, however, of the patriotic feeling, which may suggest great sacrifices," the diffusion of property in France is great, and the habits of the peasantry are careful; or, according to the Times, "griping." This "griping." disposition finds in England a depositary in the Savings. Bank; in France in Government, Rentes, or as we should call them Consols.

Very small sums are accepted, and one of the Very small sums are accepted, and one of the wonders of the reign of NAPOLEON III, was his power to raise immense loans as they then seemed. In truth an industrious and saving people accumulate in small portions an enor-mous total. The envy excited by large fortunes leads people to misjudge their comparative importance. If they were divided among even a fraction of the population, they would give a very small amount to each person. The economical habits of thirty millions out of perhaps forty millions would enable them to contribute an amount, which, considering their position separately, would appear impossible.

Whatever may be the prospects of ultimate peace, the war has destroyed much which it will require great exertion to repair, and this will give great activity to many callings. Money will be required to set the different industries in motion. Lonns will be wanted not merely for the State, but the municipality not only for public, but private establishments. Those who have property left will hasten to make it available by necessary outlay; and though this may ultimately create embarrassment, its present effect must be to stimulate employment. Capital will be thus gradually ment, its present control of the semployment. Capital will be thus gradually absorbed. There is now a plethora from long stagnation. There will be a dispersion, probably rapid, by the revival of industry.

It would, indeed, be dangerous to predict the precise period when peaceful adventure will be in full career. No one knows what complications may arise, or what accident may precipitate Europe into another conflict which some time or other is known to be inevitable. The dray loads of coin sent from France into Germany will make a very striking procession. It has, however, to be distributed through various States. tributed through various states, stored for special purposes. The effect of the war in Germany has been very disastrons to multitudes of people, and it has drawn useful artisans from the workshop, as well as the highest price that could be obtained as the highest price that could be obtained as the highest price that could be a halipenny per thousand gullons, the daily sale of the total quantity provided would be only £25,880 per annum. Putting the maintenance charge at £12,000 per annum, and the interest on and even this It has answered a great purpose, no doubt in a military view. But it has seriously injured multitudes of people both morally and physically. A German paper has given a very mournful description of the war in these respects. Doubtless worse mischief has fallen the French both by the loss of life, and by the general destruction. The question, whether it is better to have a standing army in the usual sense or a landwehr such as they have in Germany, must include another—the amount of sacrifice, social and material, which results from making every man a soldier and suspending all the industrial pursuits of a country. A Professor of a University, or the head of a large manufactory, or the most skilled arti-sans of an important trade are sent to the field to do what could be quite as well done by properly taught soldiers who make war their profession. The demoralised state of France sufficiently accounts for the failure of its armies. It does not follow that men better selected and disciplined under a Government less dependent upon corruption than that of the late Emperor will not prove, in a long campaign, as efficient instruments as these taken from civil employment. This will require that not prove, in a l they should be educated, and their moral tone improved. Education indeed is important, as a resource in discouragement and difficulty. A remarkable example of this was given in the resource in discouragement and remarkable example of this was given in the life of Sir Joins Franklix. A large party was employed on an expedition. Almost every uncducated man died from discouragement and fatigue, while the gentlemen, who suffered as much, survived. The former had not the mental strength which both delivers from needless fear, and qualifies for physical privation and endurance. In this respect we have no doubt that the French could not compare with | trained bydraulic engineer to act as the head the Germans, who had undergone the training of an effective public school. It is stated that fifty letters were written in the Sanscrit by one Germon army. This might be mere pedantry, but it implied the prevalence of education which had much to do with success.

Antrovan the general tenor of the report of Colonel SANKEY on the great Coliban scheme of waterworks is not encouraging, still, if-his judgment is to be relied upon, the Government of Victoria is fortunate in having his opinion now rather than in a later stage of the proceedings. The wise course, indeed, would have been to have sought an opinion before the works were commenced; and perhaps it might have been sufficient to have remitted all the designs, specifications, have remitted all the designs, specifications, and estimates to India, to be reported upon. The cost of carrying out the scheme is counted in tens of thousands of pounds, of which not a few it now appears have been entirely wasted. The cost of finding this fact out has been £2500, of which only £1800 is absorbed by Colonel Sanker's own expenses. Had this money been spent in the first instance it would clearly have been a very great saving, and the experience thus gained may, perhaps, prevent worse extravagance in future. Colonel Sanker, to judge from some passages in his report, appears to be a cool hard-headed calculator, and with no toleration for the intrusion of the emotions or imagination within the domain of mathematics. Anxious as these colonies are to achieve rapidly great within the domain of mathematics. Anxious as these colonies are to achieve rapidly great results, and to rush somewhat rashly into expensive undertakings in the sanguine hope of reaping large rewards, it is perhaps a wholesome discipline to pay for the services of an instructor who teaches that, in order to secure satisfactory results in State projects of this kind, "there must be the most or this kind, "there must be the most rigid professional scrutiny, and everything approaching to the enthusiastic view must be set aside as worthless;" and who, in support of this opinion, quotes from an eminent Indian engineer the statement an eminent Indian engineer the statement "that it is necessary, in deciding on the validity of schemes, to doubt every single statement till indisputably proved, and then both raise the estimated outlay and reduce the anticipated carnings to the lowest possible limit consistent with a just consideration of all the circumstances of the case." Perhaps, if we had adopted this course with regard to our railway outlay, we should not now be so disappointed at the results.

Colonel Sankey's report consists mainly

Colonel Sanker's report consists mainly of two parts—first, a general criticism of the scheme, and, secondly, a criticism of the engineering details. To the Victorians both these points are of interest, to outsiders the these points are of interest, to outsiders the interest centres principally in the first.

The general purpose of the scheme is not merely to supply the towns of Castlemaine and Sandhurst, but to furnish to the miners an adequate supply of water for sluicing. It was calculated that the quantity intercepted would be sufficient to provide 55 millions of gallons during 313 working days of each year. To do this, after making all other provision, namely, compensation for water returned to the river, and allowance for evaporation, soakage, &c., would require, according to Colonel Sanker, not less than 20,000 million gallons per annum. But it appears that in the year SANGEY, not less than 20,000 million gallons per annum. But it appears that in the year 1869 the whole discharge from the reservoirs did not exceed 3822 millions, or only one-fifth of the quantity required, and that even if it were possible to make additional reservoirs so as to store more, there is at present no evidence to prove that there would be water enough to keep them sumplied. Had the four reservoirs been them supplied. Had the four reservoirs been all duly completed according to design, and all duly completed according to design, and called upon to deliver the quantity for which they were estimated, it appears that the deliveries would have been short during nearly the whole of 1869 and up to July, 1870. In only one month of the whole period would there have been a satisfactory discharge. The quantity short delivered would have been 12,267 million gallons in 1869, and 11,036 millions in 1870; so that, to sum up, the scheme in this aspect alone is condemned on millions in 1870; so that, to sum up, the scheme in this aspect alone is condemned on two grounds—first, that they could not deliver the water demanded; and, secondly, that there is not the water for them to deliver. The project, however, is not wholly useless, and Colonei Sankey thinks that though the delivery of 55 million gallons is out of the question, the Malmsbury reservoir would be only in years of waderus rainfall ta delivery. able in years of moderate rainfall to deliver fifteen millions; but the supply would fall below this limit in dry seasons and whenever the rainfall was much distributed; nor does the capacity of the drainage area admit of the defeat being remained.

expense of supervision and the interest money at five per cent. the loss to the country would be £38,000 a year, and even this Colonel Sankey thinks is a more favourable estimate than would be practically realised; and assuming that with such expectations the Government will not complete the work, he furnishes calculations as to what might be done on a minor scale. In concluding his report, and in making, as requested, some general remarks, Colonel SANKEY dilates on the importance of having adequate professional talent to investigate properly all schemes of this and a kindred character before large capitals are em-barked in them. Haste and failure are synonymous terms. "The patient scientific study of all the conditions under which such works can be economically carried out can alone secure success, and if this be in anywise true, the sooner the work of investigation begins the better." He further says:—"In venturing to place before the Government the views I entertain on the subject of remunerative public works, I have proceeded on the supposition that, as at all times, there will be either works in hand of this nature, or others undertaken by private companies or corpora-tions, carried out by a system of grants in aid, there must necessarily be some ade-quate machinery for conducting the duties attending the execution of such work, or of attending the execution of such work, or of affording professional advice, and in this riew I have thought it right to recommend that in any case waterworks of all descriptions should form a special branch of a department charged with the execution of such works in the colony. Further, that it would be of the utmost importance to the country to obtain the services of a thoroughly of this special branch. In discussing this matter, I: have brought under notice the constitution of the Indian Public Works Department, and some of the advantages attendant thereon."

TRANWAYS ON PUBLIC ROADS.—Sir James Fergusson has submitted to the members of the South Amstralian Government the following memorandum on the subject of iron transvays:—"I have several times described to Ministers in private a kind of transvay which has been hald down in some parts of Ayrahire and elsewhere, within my observation, for the purpose of lessening the cost of maintenance of the public roads where the traffic is heavy and the gradients steep. The result is very satisfactory. I expect to have by the next mail particulars of the outstand the particulars of the outstand particulars of the outstand upon rough wooden sleepers, and gruvelled for the horse track. This assumed the previous existence of a roadway as foundation. The hallasting need not be heavy or expensive. The rails are mailed to the transvers sleepers by continon apikes; they are flat plattes of cast iron, about a yard in length and six inches in breadth, perhaps a quarter of an inch in thickness, with a slight upward liange on each side, so as to guide wheels upon the rail, but admitting of their leaving it when necessary. The gauge is that used for the narts and carriages of the country, but here would be wider than at home. There the transway is laid down on the next side of the road, on the inclines, and would be convenient for such considerable, and the traffe so small as to make a railway unremunerative, as in the south-reast. There, I believe, it would be a chean pathitute for a road in its construction, and would relieve the Government of the cest of report, he estimated the cost of laying down such roads alongside of existing roads at £1100 per mile, and adds:—"The great advantages in this description of way are, that almost any waggen or eart out travel upon it, and aborse in enabled to draw at least four times as much more upon this kind of transway as it can upon a macademised road. PUBLIC NOTICES. THE LATE REV. CANON STACK.

The LATE REV. CANON STACK.

The recent sudden and Ismented death of the Rev. CANON STACK, under mist distressing circumstances, hear ceasioned a great loss to the Church and to the computantly at large. A truly good and able min has passed away from amongst us, and it has been suggested that a fitting tribute should be reized to his memory, in the shape of a Memorial Fund; which would not the one hand mark the esteem in which he was held, and on the one hand mark the esteem in which he was held, and on the other hand more the corniors of his widow and dinighter.

It is believed that there are many of his friends, and those to whom he was not, pershadly known, who will gladly avail themselves of the opportunity thus afforded, and who will esteem it both a duty and a privilege to join in recording their sense of the late Alr. Stack's untiring ocal in the discharge of his duties as a Christian minister, as well in his parochial labours as in the councils of the Church of which he was so brilliant and distinguished a member, and atthews are interest aid in lightening the extra of those he has left behind him.

The following gentlemen have connected to act as a committee for the purpose of releving subscriptions:—Houndern Language, Health and the stack of the subscriptions in the care of those he has left behind him.

THE WRICK OF THE MEGERA.—The following letter, respecting first seen on Amsterdam Island, has been forwarded to the Commissioner of Onetons of Vistoria. As the islands of Amsterdam and St. Paul are not far distant, and their shows are frequently transposed on the chart, there can be fittle doubt that the first have been made by the crew of the Megeart troop ship. "18th August, 1871.—Sir,—in view of the importance of the subject, I trust I may be excursed for troubling you. About a week past, a vessel, the Punjant, arrived from England. She reports having, when three tubes off Amsterdam Island, seen awards be even fire so in the shore. As this is generally known to be a desolute and unlubabiled island, the idea naturally occurs, seeing the island is in the track of ships not salling on the great circle, that there may be on the island stantantly covers, seeing the island is in the track of ships not salling on the great circle, that there may be on the island start there are scalers on the island, that where combinatible matter is not too pleaty they would make (seven) fires for other purposes than to call the attention of the passing ship. This it eeems to have failed to de, and it remains in the discretion of the Government to determine whether the three colonics, Victoria, New South Wales, and South Australia, should not do something to settle the question. A rologiving for the intrusion on your valuable time, I am, Sir, yours, very respectfully, W. S. YMER, Melbourner."

valuable time, I am, Sir, yours, very respectfully, W. S. Vinkt, Melbourne."

The Tighthorne Case.—Among the passengers by the mail steamer (ays the drgwa) was Mr. Joune, one of the coursel engaged in the Tighthorne case on behalf of the claimant. We believe that the object of Mr. Joune's visit to the colony is to obtain widence, if possible, upon one point of the claimant's statement which we find reported in the papers received by this small. The statement in question, which was elicited in cross-examination with some difficulty and after some exhibition of reluctance, was, that the claimant was in 1859 charged, under the name of Morgan, with hor celevating at Gastlomaine, in company with Arthur Orion. However, they proved the horses were claim own, and were dischanged. It is understood that the case for the defence is, that the chainant is Orion, and, therefore, the question whether it is possible now to prove this statement of the claimant, and to necertain that two mes, one of whom was named Morgan and the other Orion, were accused of horse-tassing at the time and place mentioned, is most important. The man who is said to have been prosecutor in the case referred to was named Croft or Rurgess, and could if aive now possibly give very valuable syldence.

The attendance throughout has been fair. To-night "Sixteen String Jack" is to be presented, a drama of the Jack Sheppard school, and probably intended to convey as strong a mural as is contained in the life and death of the notorious prison-breaker.

THE CARANDINIS.—After a very successful reason the Carandinis gave a farawell concert has evening, at the Victoria Theatre, the performance being announced as for the benefit of Mr. Walter Sharwin. As a special attraction (if one were needed) Measra. John Hill and Ackland, and Mons. Del-Sario took part in the concert. There was a very large nudience, and frequent encores were demanded: The Carandinis leave Sydney on Tuesday next for Brisbanc, where they purpose stopping for several weeks.

CHARLES'S PANORAMA.—This exhibition has been on view every evening during the past week at the School of Aris; and has heen tolerably well patronised. The war seenes and Eastorn views are clearly depicted, and appear to afford general satisfaction. National senge are sing at intervals; and the entertainment includes the wonderful performance of some well trained monkeys, which cause much mertinent among the younger perion of the audience. The panorama will be open this afternoon and evening.

SPENCER'S EXHIBITION.—Notwithstanding the rivalry of other places of amusement this exhibition, though a permanent institution, holds its own, being daily visited by numbers of persons. Its attractiveness has lately been enhanced by the addition of several new works of art, which are calculated to secure for it the continued patronage of the public. It is worthy of mention, that last week one of the country visitors having a paralysed hand, from which he had suffered for some time, but the use of it restored GMr. Spencer states, by a shock from the galvanic-hattery in the exhibition; and that he loft highly delighted with the unexpected benefit he had received.

The Coroner raid they had not to decide whether Kelly or Lindray were guilty of murder or not. They had to consider when, where, and by what means the man Crawford came by his death. They would remember the circumslances under which Crawford came by his death—that he was found in Paramantin-street on the morning of the 20th ultime in a state of insensibility, and was taken to the Infirmary, where he shortly afterwards died. It was afterwards accretained—that death had resulted from a wound in the arm severing the axillary articly. They had also not whether intilied by some other person or persons. As to the theory of suicide, there was no tvidence to warrant them in entertaining such an idea. On the Esturday night, Crawford was in Sydney in the company of several persons. It was in the best of temper, and there was nothing about him to generate a suspicion that he contemplated suicide. He was found at the corner of Green's lane, under the circumstances detailed by the pilice. His coast was found rolled up in front of Moss s. From this circumstance alone they might be able to determine that the wound was not likely to have been self-inflitted. They might now devote their attention to the second consideration—whether there had been nurder, and, if so, by whom inflicted? They must determine whether that wound had been inflicted by soone person; and if they thought that it had been given by any particular person, they must say so. What were the circumstances of this case. The import markets have exhibited increased firmness during the last few days, with a moderate demand for lots suitable to country trade and some few export orders. Breadstuffs are very unsettled, and prices at present quite nominal. There was a movement in salt to-day, and several parceis of rock were taken at from £4 to £4 15s. Brandies continue to command attention, small lots of Martell's darkare held.

several parcels of rock were taken at from £4 to £4 15s. Brandies continue to command attention, small lots of Martell's dark'are held for 7s. 6d. and upwards. For bulk ale of leading brands £7 7s. 6d. to £7 15s. is required; bottled is also dearer. A good business has been done in Bernard's teas at full rates, and the small balance remaining will be cleared at suction next week. In noticing report of a sieamer to lead at Hankow in to-day's issue, the vessel mentioned should have been the Cleator. Sugars close very weak without the suction next week. In noticing report of a stemmer to lead at Hankow in to-day's issue, the vessel mentioned should have been the Cleator. Sugars close very weak, without the slightest prospect of recovering. The first of the new crop from the Macleay has already reached this market; and there will be a considerable increase in the quantity to come forward this scason. A shipment of brown Honolulu sorts were quitted at auction to-day by Messrs. Stubbs and Co. at current rates, and we hear that the shipment of Hong Kong Refining Company's, ex Lady Turner, will be brought to the hammer in a few days.

We have Melbourne papers to the 30th ultimo. The Argus of that date reports:—

Business in the import markets has been very quiet throughout the day. The mail new does appear not say et to have bad any precised effect. A healthy time, however, pervades the market, notwithstanding we are without any transactions of importance to refer to. Breastedin, as far an regard sales, call for no special regard to the control of the batter sales. On the control of more sales privately not much business has been reported, but under the bammer some 2400 bushels Adelaids were quitted at 6s 6d, a full price for the quality, while inferior war quitted at 6s 1dd. A few small parcels of the botter sorts have also been run off amongst the trade at 6s 6d. and inquires are apringing the trade at 6s 6d. and inquires are apringing the small of the sales. Oats are neglected; prime samples are vanted, and for all shelf of a current sort made at 1dd. Candies do not command much notice; 600 bases were quitted by sauction, and for sile highly to badly damaged prices ranged from 10 days and 10 days are considerable business is pending in Camoron's tens. There is a code great and a considerable business is pending in Camoron's tens. There is a code for the control of the correct of the public sales coming off. For tobsecos an im

CORONER'S INQUEST.

SHOCKING DEATH OF A CHILD.—Yesterday afternoon, the City Coroner held an inquiry at the Britannia Hotel, Paddington, touching the death of a little child named Johnson, who was found dead in a water-closet, on his father's premises, about noon on Thursday. Constable Currigan, deposed to the recovery of the body of the child from the water-closet on the father's premises, about 1 o'clock on Thursday afternoon; the water was three feet ton inches deep, and came to within five inches of the top of the seat; there were four beards loose on the floor; they were loose enough for a child to lift; they were not nailed; there was a sufficient space between each board for a child to get his fingers in between; the child had been reported as missing at the Darlinghurst Police Station; the father made inquiries there, and said that the child had been reported of in Bourke-lane off the South Head Road: knew the deceased child; his prients were neighbours of hers; the saw the child shout half-past 3 o'clock, on Wodenesday afternoon; to them can into the place with a black handled

Emu View House, which is substantially built of brick with slated roof, is situated on a natural knoll of land, and occupies the site of old Government buildings, being the sarliest as well as the best selection on these well-known plains. From its elevation, the whole of the property is lar above the timits of the highest flood known, and its position as a healthy residence cannot be surpassed by any property on this side of the Western mountains.

The house has a wide-flagged verandah on two sides, and contains hall and seven large rooms—one 32 by 14 feet, two 18 by 14, two 17 by 14—all well finished with cedar, fitted with register gratey, and in good order—detached kitchen (approached by a covered way), 2 rooms and rooms over. The subply of water is never failing, and is conserved in a large tank holding 20,000 gallons, filled from the roof—fitted with pump. The whole of the land, which is substantially fenced into puddocks, one having been laid down in English grasses, is also well supplied with water from two large holes—one originally a Government quarry which is susplied by a spring, and has never been affected by the severest drought known. The orangery contains 70 very healthy trees in full bearing, and the orchard 60 choice apple trees, and is also well-supficed with some fruit of a very choice description; all the trees well grown.

The vineyard is now entering its second year of bearing. RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from Messrs. R. TOWNS and CO. to soil by public anction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, on TUESDAY, the 12th SEPTEMBER INSTANT, at 11 o'eleck, The above magnificent cattle properties.

The above magnificent cattle properties.

STRATHALBYN and HARVEST HOME adjoin each other, and include six splendid blocks of country, vin:—Wongeurr (at the junction of the 150gie and Burdckin Rivers), Dirrell, Mullar, and Bingee, all on the right bank of the Burdckin, and Harvest Home (2 blocks) on the opposite ado. The frontage to the Burdckin is upwards of 22 miles, and the run is also partly bounded on the north by 12 miles of the Bogie. The whole of the run is also abundantly supplied with water by numerous large creeks and lakes. The country is richly grassed and very fattening, and, as a whole, is catimated to carry 12,000 head of cattle in any season.

Strathbulyn adjoins the famous stations of Inkerman, Strathbogic, Woodhouse, and Salisbury Plains, the latter belonging to the Hon. Thomse Helt, and is distant about 70 miles from BOVER and TOWNSVILLE, and is only 30 miles from the populous GOLD DIGGINGS at RAVENSWOOD.

The IMPROVEMENTS comprise comfortable overnoor's cottage, garden, kitchen, store, stable, larness room, and shed; horse paddock of about 100 series, securely enclosed; and large yards, equal to work 2000 hosd of cattle. There is also a good herding yard on the Harvest Home country,

With these properties will be sold

6008 HEAD OF CATTLE, more or less.

. These cattle are all of excellent quality, chiefly short-homed Durhams, very quiet, and well broken to camp. The original herd were selected from the celebrated (Dangar's) TD cattle, and the quality has been sustained by the introduction of bulls, principally from the noted stude of Mr. Lee and Mr. Archer, and the Calling II imported stud. A very large portion of the herd is full grown, and no calves branded, between January and June

of this year will be included in the sale.

The attention of capitalists is particularly directed to the above important properties, which are now in the market for bons fide sale. As a profitable investment they can be well recommended, as this class of property is not only steadily advancing in value, but must continue to improve from the known scarcity of cattle in the Southern parts of Queensland, as well as in this and the colony of Victoria—and also from the rapidly increasing consumption of steek for the purposes of meat-preserving, an industry which is now limity established, and promises to be largely extended.

It may be un minimed that it is estimated there will be from 1200 to 1600 culves under 6 months old, which will be given to the purphaser free of charge.

ALN.WICK MINE, HEXHAM, HUNTEL RIVER,
one of the most valuable COAL MINES in the colony of Now South Wales, situated about three-quarters of a mile from the Newcastle and Maitland Railway, and about 550 yards from the Woodford Tramway.

by property comprises 300 ACRES OF FREEHOLD LAND, on which a main shaft, about 76 feet deep, has been sunk on to a fine seam of good Coal, 4 feet in depth. A number of trial shafts, a considerable distance apart, also come on to this seam, and by boring a further depth of shout 70 feet, number auparior seam is arrived at, fully 6 feet deep, so that it would be no exaggeration to atto that the SUPPLY OF MARKETABLE COAL on the property is INBX-HAUSTIBLE.

The distance by rallway from the shipping port, New-castle, is fourteen miles; and from Morpeth and Matland respectively, 7 and 10 miles, in but of which latter towns there is a considerable local demand for household and steam there is a considerable local demand for household and steam purposes.

Circumstances which need not be explained in an advartisement compel an immediate realisation of this important and valuable coal extate. The attention of capitalists is therefore directed to the opportunity afforded for securing a nearly unlimited coal bed, not only of present but finmense prospective value.

With the mine will be sold the plant and improvements, comprising Horizontal Engine, 45-horse power, with boilers, in thorough repair and good working order; 5 Colfages; large Building, 28 x 15; Iron Rails, Pipes, Pump, Stage, &c.

Certificates as to the value and quality of the coal from Government and A. S. N. Company's engineers; estimates of cost of raising and delivering at Newcastle, Morpoth, and Hexhem, and inventory of plant, may be insposted, and further particulars obtained at the Sale Rooms. RUNKER and SPARKE have received instructions from Mr. R. G. Yeomans to sell by auction, at the Northumberland Hotel, West Maitland, on WEDNESDAY, the 18th September, at 12 o'clock, The above valuable and desirably situated PASTORAL PROPERTY.

PALLAL, with its highly-improved herd, may justly be termed the gem of the Gwydir District; its capacities cannot be excelled, are very extensive, commanding a frontage of about eleven miles to each side of the Gwydir or Horton River, with an unlimited back area, permanently and abundantly watered in all seasons. Irrespective of that aplendid and reliable source of supply, the Gwydir River, which passes through its centre, it is intersected by Rocky Creek, Pallal or Main Creek, and several other crooks and aprings so situated that the whole run is available for stock and abounds with pasturage of a very fattening character.

The country is adapted for both sheep and cattle, is very of cattle, or an equivalent of either, in all seasons.

The IMPROVEMENTS are extensive, and comprise the homestead, coinfortable residence of six rooms, kitchen, store room, stable, hay and corn sheds, men's huts, black-milth's abop, an excellent orchard, with choice fruit trees, vinca in full bearing, and vegetable gardeen, large atockyard, milking yard, cultivation paddock, large horse and calf paddocks, woolshed, yards, &c., together with all necessary outstations, sheepyards, and large yard for collecting cattle on the outskirts of the run.

There are no free selections on the Station, and the rental is £120 per annum.

"PALLAL" is undoubtedly the finest station property offered for public competition for a considerable poriod, approximate to the best markets in New South Wales, stocked with a megrificent and quich tend of well-bred cattle, the admiration of all who have had an opportunity of inspecting them. "The sheep also have been much improved, the wool of excellent quality, the climate healthy, the pasturage rich and shundant in all seasons, a never-failing supply of water, and the improvements all that can be desired.

Such a combination of advantages must at a glance convince intending nurchages that spither tending nurchages and the seaton of the convence of th
